Measure: RBC Client Relief Program
Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Additional information	Considerations
The RBC Client Relief program provides clients impacted by COVID-19 with immediate and long-term relief: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Payment Deferrals – for Canadians in need of immediate cash-flow, including up to six month deferral for mortgages, credit cards, installment loans and auto loans. • Hardship Relief – introduced to support personal clients with longer term needs such as those who have experienced a material change in income due to job loss, or illness. Support may include additional relief measures such as reduced credit card interest charges for up to six months for clients receiving credit card minimum payment deferrals, as well as refinancing or credit restructuring depending on your situation. 	Financial relief is available for personal and business clients. Relief for business clients is discussed later in this summary under Support for businesses.	Eligibility is based on the type of relief sought. Some restrictions apply.	Easy access to apply for immediate financial relief is available through RBC online banking self-serve tools for the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • For mortgage, personal installment loans and auto loans through the “Skip-a-Payment” link; and • For credit cards through the “Need to defer a minimum payment due to COVID-19” link. For longer term relief, up to six months of payment relief may be accessible through RBC’s Financial Relief Assistance Plan. This option requires the support of one of our advisors; book a call with an advisor through our online booking tool: https://www.rbcroyalbank.com/book-an-appointment/book-an-appointment.html Further details on the RBC Client Relief Program and how to apply can be found at www.rbcroyalbank.com.	For Skip-a-Payment requests, there is no fee to skip a payment. Mortgages When you skip a payment, the interest on the skipped payment is added to your outstanding balance and interest is charged on that amount. This means your mortgage/loan balance will increase. Your payments won’t change during the term of your mortgage. Instead, at renewal, your monthly payment amount will increase to account for the higher balance. When you skip a payment you must still pay the portion of your payment that covers your property taxes and HomeProtector Insurance Premium, if applicable. Personal installment and auto loans For auto loan and fixed rate loan products, deferred interest will be added to the outstanding balance but interest will not be charged on deferred interest. For variable rate loans, the deferred interest will be added to the outstanding balance and interest will be charged on this new balance.	Using Skip-a-Payment may significantly increase your interest costs over the life of your mortgage / loan, so it’s important to carefully evaluate your financial situation and priorities before exercising this option. Keep in mind, skipping a payment can affect your amortization and payment schedule. For credit cards, if no payments are made during the relief period, your minimum payment may be higher at the end of the relief period. Interest will continue to accrue at your annual interest rates during the relief period. Interest charges will be added to your outstanding balance, along with any transactions, which may cause your outstanding balance to increase during the relief period. Interest is not charged on accrued interest.

Measure: Canada Emergency Response Benefit (CERB)
Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Additional information	Considerations
The CERB is a taxable benefit that will provide $500 a week for up to 16 weeks (roughly $2,000 a month for up to four months). The CERB will be available from March 15, 2020 until October 3, 2020. Benefits will start within 10 days of you submitting an application. There is no waiting period. Payments will be made through direct deposit or by cheque. You will be paid more quickly if you choose direct deposit. Payments will be retroactive to your eligibility date.	Full-time and part-time employees and self-employed individuals, including contract workers, who must stop working due to COVID-19 and do not have access to paid leave or other income support. Reasons for ceasing work: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • If you are sick, quarantined or taking care of someone who is sick with COVID-19 • If you are a working parent who must stay home without pay to care for children that are sick or need care because of school and daycare closures. • If you are still employed but are not being paid because your employer has asked you not to come to work due to insufficient business. • If you have been let go from your job. • If you are a seasonal worker who has exhausted your EI regular benefits and are unable to undertake your regular seasonal work. • If you have recently exhausted your EI regular benefits between December 29, 2019 and October 3, 2020 and are unable to find a job or return to work. If you voluntarily quit, you will not be eligible to apply or be eligible to apply.	In order to qualify for this benefit, you must: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Be a resident of Canada and at least 15 years old; • In 2019, or in the 12 month period preceding the application date for the CERB, have an income level of at least $5,000 from employment or self-employment income, non-eligible dividends, EI or allowance, money or other benefits paid under a provincial plan due to pregnancy or adoption; • Have ceased work for reasons relating to COVID-19 for at least 14 consecutive days within the four week period in respect of which you are applying for payment of the CERB. • If you are applying for the first time, you do not expect to receive more than $1,000 (before taxes) from employment and self-employment income for at least 14 days in a row during the 4-week payment period. • If you are re-applying for another period, you do not expect to receive more than $1,000 (before taxes) from employment and self-employment income for at least 14 days in a row during the 4-week payment period. 	Apply through either Service Canada or the Canada Revenue Agency (CRA), depending on your situation. There is a questionnaire online that will direct you to the appropriate agency that best fits your situation: https://www.canada.ca/en/services/benefits/ei/cerb-application.html Apply online through Service Canada: https://www.canada.ca/en/services/benefits/ei/cerb-application/cerb-privacy-notice.html Apply online with CRA My Account: https://www.canada.ca/en/revenue-agency/services/e-services/e-services-individuals/account-individuals.html Apply over the phone: 1-800-959-2019 or 1-800-959-2041 (bilingual)	If you have stopped working because of COVID-19, you should apply for the CERB, whether or not you are eligible for EI. If you became eligible for EI regular or sickness benefits on March 15, 2020 or later, your claim will automatically be processed through the CERB. If you would be entitled to more than $500 per week under EI you will not get the higher amount; you will receive $500 per week regardless of what you may have been eligible to receive through EI. If you are already receiving EI regular or sickness benefits, you would continue to receive benefits and should not apply for the CERB. If your EI benefits end before October 3, 2020, you can apply for the CERB once those benefits end if you are unable to return to work due to COVID-19. If you receive the CERB and are eligible for regular EI and EI sickness benefits, you will still be able to access your normal EI benefits if you are still unemployed after the 16 weeks end.	Although it is a taxable benefit, tax will not be deducted at source. You will be required to report the benefit as income when you file your tax return for the 2020 tax year. Applying for the CERB may impact your employer's ability to claim the Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy (if applicable). The government is considering an approach to limit duplication. A possible solution may be to allow you to cancel your CERB claim and repay the amount if you are rehired by your employer during the same eligibility period.

Measure: Employment Insurance (EI)
Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Additional information	Considerations
EI provides regular benefits if you lose your job through no fault of your own (for example, due to shortage of work, seasonal or mass lay-offs) and you are available for and able to work, but can't find work. As of January 1, 2020 the maximum EI payment per week is $573. EI sickness benefits can provide you with up to 15 weeks of financial assistance if you cannot work for medical reasons. Effective March 15, 2020, the government has temporarily waived the one-week waiting period and medical certificate requirement for those who are in quarantine who would otherwise qualify for EI sickness benefits.	Anyone who has stopped working and had paid into EI. You will need to have accumulated between 420 and 700 hours of insurable employment during the “qualifying period” to be entitled to receive EI regular benefits. The number of hours of insurable employment required is determined when you apply for benefits, depending on the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • your place of residence; and • the unemployment rate for your region. 	The government provides guidelines for who is eligible but they encourage you to apply for benefits so that their processing agents can determine if you are eligible.	Apply by selecting “Regular benefits” or “Sickness benefits”, whichever best applies to your situation. Regular benefits: https://www.canada.ca/en/services/benefits/ei/ei-regular-benefit/apply.html Sickness benefits: https://www.canada.ca/en/services/benefits/ei/ei-sickness/apply.html	Apply for EI benefits as soon as you stop working. You can apply for benefits even if you have not yet received your Record of Employment (ROE). If you became eligible for EI regular or sickness benefits on March 15, 2020 or later, your claim will be automatically processed through the CERB. If you have recently applied for EI regular or sickness benefits, you do not need to re-apply. Your application will automatically be assessed to determine if you are eligible for EI or the CERB. If you were eligible for EI before March 15, 2020 or you are applying for EI Maternity, Parental, Fishing, Compassionate care and Family caregiver benefits, you should contact the EI call centre at 1-800-206-7218.	If you have stopped working because of COVID-19, you should apply for the CERB, regardless of whether you are eligible for EI. If you delay filing your claim for benefits for more than four weeks after your last day of work, you may lose benefits.

Measure: Minimum registered retirement income fund (RRIF) withdrawals
Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Additional information	Considerations
The Canadian government has enacted legislation to reduce required RRIF minimum payments by 25% for 2020. In other words, you are only required to withdraw 75% of your unreduced required minimum payment for 2020.	RRIF holders who must take a minimum payment in 2020. RRIF holders must take a minimum payment each year after the year your RRIF is established. As locked-in plans are subject to the same tax legislation as regular registered plans, the temporary reduction will also apply to life income funds (LIFs), restricted life income funds (RLIFs), locked-in retirement income funds (LRIFs), and prescribed RRIFs.	If you have not yet withdrawn your 2020 RRIF minimum payment, or have withdrawn only a portion of the unreduced payment, you can request the reduced minimum. The legislation currently enacted by the government does not allow for re-contributions of excess withdrawals. If you have already withdrawn more than the reduced 2020 RRIF minimum payment, you will not be permitted to re-contribute any amount back to your RRIF.	Contact your RBC advisor to request a reduced minimum payment. Taking your unreduced RRIF minimum payment may be advisable if you are in a low income tax bracket this year. Many segregated fund contracts include guaranteed income for life. A segregated fund held in a RRIF may have a higher contractually guaranteed income level than the unreduced or reduced minimum payment requirement. As such, if you hold a segregated fund in your RRIF and choose to withdraw the reduced RRIF minimum payment, it may have a negative effect on your lifetime guaranteed income. If you hold a segregated fund in your RRIF, speak with your insurance advisor for more information.	Ask your RBC advisor for our article titled, “Reduction of RRIF minimum withdrawals for 2020”. When taking a payment from your RRIF, the investments in your RRIF may be transferred in-kind directly into a non-registered account in your name. There is no fee if you elect to make an in-kind transfer. Your RRIF investments are not required to mature or to be liquidated prior to transfer to the non-registered account.	If you do not need your entire unreduced RRIF minimum payment for your living expenses, consider taking advantage of the reduced minimum amount for this year.

Measure: Goods and Services Tax Credit (GSTC)

Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Additional information	Considerations
The GSTC is a tax-free quarterly payment that helps individuals and families with low and modest incomes offset all or part of the GST or HST that they pay. A one-time additional GSTC payment will be made on April 9, 2020.	If you normally receive the GST/HST credit and have filed a 2018 tax return, you will get the extra GSTC payment amount automatically. If you were previously not entitled to the GST/HST credit, but have filed your 2018 tax return, you may also get the one-time credit amount based on your family net income.	This benefit is income-tested and eligibility will be based on your 2018 tax return.	You do not need to apply for this extra payment. You simply need to file your 2018 tax return. If you are eligible you will receive it automatically. If you didn't file your tax return for 2018, you will not receive this payment. If you file your 2018 tax return late, you may be eligible for retroactive benefits.	The amount you receive will be calculated based on information from your 2018 income tax and benefit return. The maximum amounts for the 2019-2020 benefit year will increase from: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • $443 to $886 if you're single • $580 to $1,160 if you're married or living common-law • $153 to $306 for each child under the age of 19 • $290 to $580 for the first eligible child of a single parent. 	Although you do not have to file your 2019 tax return to receive the increased credit amount, you should file your 2019 tax return to ensure you continue to get your benefits and credits for the July 2020 to June 2021 benefit year.

Measure: Canada Child Benefit (CCB)

Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Considerations
The CCB is a tax-free monthly payment made to eligible families to help with the cost of raising children under 18 years of age. A one-time additional payment of $300 per child for those who qualify for the CCB will be delivered as part of the scheduled CCB payment in May 2020.	If you normally receive the CCB and have filed your 2018 tax return, you will get the enhanced CCB payment amount automatically.	Eligibility for this benefit will be based on your 2018 tax return.	If you already receive the CCB, you do not need to re-apply. If you have not applied for the CCB, you can get information on the application process at the following government link: https://www.canada.ca/en/revenue-agency/services/child-family-benefits/canada-child-benefit-overview/canada-child-benefit-apply.html	Although you do not have to file your 2019 tax return to receive the increased benefit amount, you should file your 2019 tax return to ensure you continue to get your benefits and credits for the next benefit year.

Measure: RBC Client Relief Program
Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Additional information	Considerations
RBC is offering a number of relief solutions for business clients affected by COVID-19. We are assessing the needs of businesses on a case-by-case basis to provide relief solutions that are tailored to their circumstances. Relief support may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Business loan payment deferrals. • Increases to operating line of credit limits. • Deferral of minimum payment obligations on credit cards. • Credit card interest relief: Effective April 6, 2020, RBC will reduce credit card interest charges by 50% for personal and small business clients receiving credit card minimum payment deferrals. The 50% relief will automatically apply. • Waived setup fees for new enrollments to cash management solutions. • Waived Stop Payments fee. 	Financial relief is available for personal and business clients. Relief for personal clients is discussed earlier in this summary under Support for individuals.	Eligibility is based on the type of relief sought. Some restrictions apply.	If your business is experiencing financial hardship as a result of COVID-19, please contact your business banking advisor or call our Advice Centre at 1-800-ROYAL-20 to discuss your options. Easy access to apply for deferral of your minimum payment obligations on your credit card is available through RBC online banking self-serve tools through the “Need to defer a minimum payment due to COVID-19” link. You can use the available form to request us to temporarily waive the requirement for you to make the minimum payment on your credit cards for up to two months (deferring your payment).	Through RBC's partnership with Wello (www.wello.ca) – a leading Canadian virtual healthcare company – we are making it easier for you to provide important COVID-19 screening information, timely access to physicians and nurse practitioners for health advice, and resources to support general health needs, including prescriptions, diagnostic and specialist referrals. Wello can support your employees' physical and mental health needs, wherever they are. If you are an RBC business client, you can access more information on Wello by logging into your RBC Online Banking for Business and navigating to the ‘RBC Offers’ tab.	For credit cards, if no payments are made during the relief period, your minimum payment may be higher at the end of the relief period. Interest will continue to accrue at your annual interest rates during the relief period. Interest charges will be added to your outstanding balance, along with any transactions, which may cause your outstanding balance to increase during the relief period. Interest is not charged on accrued interest.

Measure: Canada Emergency Wage Subsidy (CEWS)
Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Additional information	Considerations
The CEWS is a wage subsidy provided to eligible employers. The subsidy is calculated as 75% of eligible remuneration (such as salary, wages, and commissions) paid to an eligible employee in a week, to a maximum of $847 per week, for a 12 week period beginning March 15, 2020 to June 6, 2020. There are three four-week periods (claim period) for which an eligible employer may claim the subsidy: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • March 15 to April 11, 2020; • April 12 to May 9, 2020; and • May 10 to June 6, 2020. The amount of the subsidy available for each arm's-length employee depends on whether they were employed before or after March 15, 2020. Special rules also apply to non-arm's length employees. Certain employer-paid contributions to EI, the Canada Pension Plan (CPP), the Quebec Pension Plan (QPP), and the Quebec Parental Insurance Plan are eligible for a 100% refund. There is no limit on the refund amount that may be claimed.	An eligible employer includes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • A taxable corporation other than a public institution (this includes public corporations and corporations controlled by one or more non-resident persons); • An individual; • A registered charity or non-profit organization (other than a public institution); • A partnership consisting of eligible entities; and • A prescribed organization. On March 15, 2020, the eligible employer must have had a business number registered with the CRA to make remittances of employee source deductions. If employees apply for the CERB, it may impact an eligible employer's ability to claim the CEWS for the same eligibility period. The government is considering an approach to limit duplication which could include a process to allow individuals rehired by their employer during the same eligibility period to cancel their CERB claim and repay that amount.	The revenue of the employer must have been reduced by at least 15% in March 2020, and at least 30% in April or May 2020 when compared to the same months in 2019 (the year-over-year approach) or when compared to an average of their revenue earned in January and February 2020 (the alternative approach). Any eligible remuneration paid to an employee in a claim period will not qualify for the subsidy if the employer has not remunerated that employee in respect of 14 or more consecutive days in that particular claim period.	Applications are filed with the CRA through the CRA's My Business Account: https://www.canada.ca/en/revenue-agency/services/e-services/e-services-businesses/business-account.html The individual with the principal responsibility for the financial activities of the eligible employer must attest to the completeness and accuracy of the application. When applying, you will have to select the year-over-year approach or the alternative approach and will be required to use that same method for the entire duration of the program. Businesses that did not operate as of March 1, 2019 must use the alternative approach. Once found eligible for a specific claim period, you will automatically qualify for the next claim period.	The legislation enacting the CEWS contemplates a subsequent claim period, ending no later than September 30, 2020, suggesting that the government may anticipate extending the program beyond June 6, 2020. There are specific rules for calculating revenue. There are specific rules for determining what is considered eligible remuneration of an employee. Employers are still required to continue to collect and remit employer and employee contributions to EI, CPP, QPP, and the Quebec Parental Insurance Plan. For more detailed information about the CEWS, please ask your RBC advisor for our article titled, "Update on the Canadian government's economic response to COVID-19" and the following government website: https://www.canada.ca/en/departement-finance/economic-response-plan/wage-subsidy.html	The wage subsidy received is taxable to the employer. The employer may claim a deduction for remuneration paid to their employees. The CRA may publish the name of any person that makes an application for the CEWS. Consider whether this potential disclosure may have an impact, reputational or other, on your organization. There are anti-avoidance measures to prevent employers from engaging in artificial transactions to reduce revenues for the purposes of claiming the CEWS. Where the anti-avoidance measures apply, the employer is liable to a penalty that is generally equal to 25% of the amount of the value of the subsidy claimed, in addition to the requirement to repay in full the subsidy that was improperly received. If you do not qualify for the CEWS, for example, because your business did not experience enough of a reduction in revenue, you may still be able to qualify for the Temporary 10% Wage Subsidy (discussed below). If you claim the Temporary 10% Wage Subsidy, it will reduce the amount available under the CEWS, such that the maximum subsidy an eligible employer can receive is 75%. The CEWS will also be reduced by amounts received by employees as part of the EI Work-Sharing Program (discussed below).

Measure: 10% Temporary Wage Subsidy
Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Additional information	Considerations
The 10% Temporary Wage Subsidy is a three-month measure that will allow eligible employers to reduce the amount of payroll deductions required to be remitted to the CRA. The subsidy is calculated as 10% of the remuneration paid to eligible employees from March 18, 2020 to June 19, 2020, up to $1,375 for each eligible employee to a maximum of $25,000 total per employer.	Eligible employers include individuals, partnerships (if the members consist exclusively of individuals, excluding trusts), Canadian-controlled private corporations (CCPCs) eligible for the small business deduction, not-for-profit organizations, and registered charities.	As an eligible employer, you must employ one or more employees, have an existing business number and payroll program account with the CRA on March 18, 2020, and pay salary, wages, bonuses, or other remuneration to an eligible employee. An eligible employee is an individual who is employed in Canada. If you did not pay remuneration to an eligible employee from March 18, 2020 to June 19, 2020, you cannot receive the subsidy, even if you are an eligible employer.	You do not need to apply for the subsidy. Continue to deduct income tax, CPP contributions, and EI premiums from salary, wages, bonuses, or other remuneration paid to your employee(s). Once you have calculated your subsidy, you can reduce your current payroll remittance of federal, provincial, or territorial income tax that you send to the CRA by the amount of the subsidy. You can start reducing payroll remittances in the first remittance period that includes remuneration paid from March 18, 2020 to June 19, 2020.	You cannot reduce your remittance of CPP contributions or EI premiums. You must continue remitting the CPP contributions and EI premiums that you deducted from your employees, as well as your share of CPP contributions and EI premiums, to the CRA. Associated CCPCs will not be required to share the maximum subsidy of $25,000 per employer. For additional information, please see the following government website: https://www.canada.ca/en/revenue-agency/campaigns/covid-19-update/frequently-asked-questions-wage-subsidy-small-businesses.html	The wage subsidy received is taxable. The employer may claim a deduction for remuneration paid to their employees. If you are eligible for both the CEWS and the 10% wage subsidy for a period, any benefit you receive from the 10% wage subsidy for remuneration paid in a specific period would generally reduce the amount available to be claimed under the CEWS in that same period.

Measure: Canada Emergency Business Account (CEBA)
Benefit	Who is eligible	Eligibility criteria	How to apply	Additional information	Considerations
As part of the federal government's Business Credit Availability Program, eligible small businesses and not-for-profit organizations may be able to receive interest-free loans of up to $40,000 from the federal government under the new CEBA program. Repaying the balance of the loan on or before December 31, 2022 will result in loan forgiveness of 25% (up to $10,000). CEBA is intended to assist small businesses with their operating costs during a period where their revenues have been temporarily reduced, due to the economic impacts of COVID-19. Business owners can apply for CEBA support through their bank or credit union.	RBC is collaborating with the Government of Canada to offer CEBA assistance. Business owners may apply through RBC if: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> RBC is your primary bank for business banking, and Your RBC business deposit account was open before March 1, 2020, is active and in good standing. 	To be eligible for CEBA, per the Government of Canada's requirements, the organization must meet certain criteria, including (but not limited to) the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> Your organization was registered and operational on or before March 1, 2020; Your organization is not a holding company; and Your organization's 2019 T4 Summary of Remuneration payroll expenses (Box 14) was between $20,000 and $1.5 million. 	The online-only enrollment process is now live. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> To enroll for CEBA, log into your RBC Online Banking for Business.
